

OT EUROPE (COTEC, ENOTHE, and ROTOS) invites you to the webinar titled:

Promoting Meaningful Dialogue about Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion in Occupation-based learning and teaching, practice, and research

Date: World OT day, October 27, 2020 via Zoom

SCHEDULE (17:00-18:15 CET):

- 17:00-17:30 – 10 min presentation from each of the panellist
- 17:30-17:45 – Small group discussion in breakout room
- 17:45- 17:55 – Each group present key reflections
- 17:55- 18:05 – SPOT representative comments/reflections
- 18:05- 18:15 – Moderator final reflections

With guest panellists

Anna Arganashvili is a human rights lawyer with the background in Psychology and Occupational Therapy from Georgia (the country). She has worked against illegal detention of persons with psychosocial disabilities and has made efforts to protect children from different kinds of violence. She has headed the Georgian NGO Partnership for Human Rights and participated in multiple European initiatives for supporting human rights and diversity.

Dave Thomas is an Occupational Therapist and Public Health Specialist (remit in social justice). He is a consultant to AdvanceHE in diversity and inclusion and United Kingdom Health and Care Professions Council Diversity Forum member. His recent books include Doing Equity and Diversity in Higher Education: Redressing Structural Inequalities in the Academy (2020) and Towards Decolonising the University: A Kaleidoscope for Empowered Action (2020).

Mish' Musharrat Ahmed-Landeryou is a Senior Lecturer in Occupational Therapy and active member of Black, Asian & Minority Ethnicities Occupational Therapy Practitioners Students & Educators (BAMEOTUK) Network. Interested in race equity in occupational therapy, and wider Allied health professionals (AHP), and is actively engaging in working with AHP students and staff at her university with this

SPOT Representative

Martyna Gwiazda is an occupational therapist student from Poland. She has written a project in the subject of the seminar at her university. She is also interested in Human Centered Design and interdisciplinary/teamwork.

Moderated by Dr Juman Simaan is Senior lecturer in occupational therapy and part of the Journal of Occupational Science editorial team. His research focuses on occupational (in)justice from the perspectives of Global South communities, and on decolonising occupational therapy and occupational science education and knowledge production. His PhD thesis explored olive growing as a daily activity within the context of military occupation in Palestine. Juman Simaan is

Register for free by sending an email to info@enothe.eu (until reaching full capacity of 300 attendees, hurry up!)